
CONTENTS

PREFACE V

1 Overview 1

Toward a Theory of Conflict 2

What Is Conflict? 4

Some Good News and Some Bad News about Conflict 5

Plan of the Book 8

2 Sources of Conflict 10

Determinants of Level of Aspiration 13

Determinants of Perceptions of Other's Aspirations 16

The Absence of Mutually Acceptable Alternatives 17

Stability as the Discouragement of Conflict 18

Conclusions 24

3 Strategic Choice 25

Nature of the Strategies 25

Choosing a Strategy 27

The Dual Concern Model 28

The Perceived Feasibility Perspective 35

Antecedents of Withdrawing 41

The Vigor of Strategic Behavior 42

Conclusions 43

4 Contentious Tactics 44

Ingratiation: The Art of Relationship Building 46

Gamesmanship: The Art of Feather Ruffling 48

Persuasive Argumentation 50

Promises and Threats 51

Irrevocable Commitments 56

Conclusions 61

5 Escalation and Stability 62

The Crisis at UB 62

Transformations that Occur During Escalation 64

Escalation vs. Stability	65
Conditions Encouraging Contentious Behavior	66
Conflict-Limiting Norms and Institutions	67
The Fear of Escalation	68
Social Bonds	68
The Geography of Social Bonds	72
Stability through Threats	80
Conclusions	86
6 Processes that Produce Escalation	88
Development of the Cold War	88
Three Conflict Models	89
Psychological Changes	96
Changes in Collectives	105
Community Polarization	108
Conclusions: Conflict Models Employed by the Participants	108
7 Persistence of Escalation	111
The Tail of Cerberus: Residues that Change Things	111
The Persistence of Negative Attitudes and Perceptions	112
The Persistence of Structural Changes in Collectives	119
Overcommitment and Entrapment	121
Conclusions	125
8 Stalemate and De-escalation	126
Why Does Stalemate Occur?	127
Ways Out of Stalemate and Into De-escalation	130
Problems with Getting to Problem Solving	134
Conclusions	137
9 Problem Solving	139
Outcomes of Problem Solving	140
Types of Integrative Solutions	143
The Analysis of Interests	148
How To Go About Problem Solving	151
Covert Problem Solving	156
Strategies for Persuading Other to Engage in Problem Solving	159
Conclusions: The Debate between the Hawks and the Doves	164
10 The Intervention of Third Parties	165
What Is a Third Party?	165
The Range and Variety of Third-Party Roles	166

Effective Third-Party Intervention	169
Conclusions: The Limits and Evolution of Third-Party Intervention	179

11 Conclusions 183

REFERENCES	189
GLOSSARY	201
AUTHOR INDEX	205
SUBJECT INDEX	208