

Contents

Notes on Contributors	vii
General Editor's Introduction	ix
Editors' Introduction	I

Part I: Foundations of the Power to Punish

1. Sovereign States and Vengeful Victims: The Problem of the Right to Punish NEIL MACCORMICK AND DAVID GARLAND	11
2. Crime: in Proportion and in Perspective JOHN GARDNER	31
3. Five Puzzles in von Hirsch's Theory of Punishment ANTHONY BOTTOMS	53

Part II: Troublesome Issues in Sentencing Theory

4. Crime Seriousness and the Offender-Victim Relationship in Sentencing MARTIN WASIK	103
5. Why Bulk Discounts in Multiple Offence Sentencing? NILS JAREBORG	129
6. Dangerousness and Citizenship R. A. DUFF	141
7. Sentencing Young Offenders LUCIA ZEDNER	165
8. Desert, Proportionality, and the Seriousness of Drug Offences DOUGLAS N. HUSAK	187

Part III: Relating Theory to Contemporary Punishment Practice

9. Doing Justice to Difference	223
BARBARA A. HUDSON
10. Sentencing, Equal Treatment, and the Impact of Sanctions	251
ANDREW ASHWORTH AND ELAINE PLAYER
11. The Hardness of Hard Treatment	273
JOHN KLEINIG
Index	299