Contents

Preface.......................................................................................................................................................vii

Section I
Theoretical perspectives on language learning and teaching

Approaches to language learning and teaching: Towards acquiring communicative competence through the four skills
Esther Usó-Juan and Alicia Martinez-Flor..........................................................3

Section II
Listening

Towards acquiring communicative competence through listening
Alicia Martinez-Flor and Esther Usó-Juan.........................................................29

Areas of research that influence L2 listening instruction
Michael Rost.................................................................................................47

Learning how to listen using learning strategies
David J. Mendelsohn...................................................................................75

Academic listening: Marrying top and bottom
Tony Lynch..................................................................................................91

Teaching listening: Time for a change in methodology
Goodith White............................................................................................111

Section III
Speaking

Towards acquiring communicative competence through speaking
Alicia Martinez-Flor, Esther Usó-Juan and Eva A Icón Soler.........................139
Areas of research that influence L2 speaking instruction
Martin Bygate ................................................................. 159

Questions as strategies to encourage speaking in content-and-language-integrated classrooms
Christiane Dalton-Pujfer .................................................. 187

Turn-taking awareness: Benefits for teaching speaking skills in academic and other contexts
Rebecca Hughes ................................................................ 215

Teaching speaking: A text-based syllabus approach
Anne Burns ................................................................. 235

Section IV
Reading

Towards acquiring communicative competence through reading
Esther Usó-Juan and Alicia Martinez-Flor .................................. 261

Areas of research that influence L2 reading instruction
William Grabe .................................................................... 279

Developing strategic L2 readers... by reading for authentic purposes
Anne M. Ediger .................................................................... 303

Finding a path to fluent academic and workplace reading
Mary Lee Field .............................................................. 329

Teaching reading: Individual and social perspectives
Eddie Williams ............................................................... 355

Section V
Writing

Towards acquiring communicative competence through writing
Esther Usó-Juan, Alicia Martinez-Flor and Juan C. Palmer-Silveira ........................................... 383
Areas of research that influence L2 writing instruction
Ann M. Johns........................................................................................................401

Techniques for shaping writing course curricula: Strategies in designing assignments
Barbara Kroll.........................................................................................................423

Written in, written out: Who sets the standards for academic writing?
Christopher Trihble............................................................................................447

Teaching writing: Orienting activities to students' goals
Alister Cumming....................................................................................................473

List of Contributors............................................................................................493

Index......................................................................................................................497