Contents

Notes on contributors ix

1. Introduction: Multiculturalism and the welfare state: Setting the context
Keith Banting and Will Kymlicka 1

Part I. Cross-national studies

2. Do multiculturalism policies erode the welfare state? An empirical analysis
Keith Banting, Richard Johnston, Will Kymlicka, and Stuart Soroka 49

3. 'If you are my brother, I may give you a dime!' Public opinion on multiculturalism, trust, and the welfare state
Markus Crepaz 92

Part II. Case studies

4. Multiculturalism and welfare policies in the USA: A state-level comparative analysis
Rodney E. Hero and Robert R. Preuhs 121

5. Is multiculturalism eroding support for welfare provision? The British case
Geoffrey Evans 152

6. The parallel decline of multiculturalism and the welfare state in the Netherlands
Han Entzinger 177

7. Multiculturalism in Germany: Rhetoric, scattered experiments, and future chances
Peter A. Kraus and Karen Schönwälder 202
Contents

8. Do campaigns for historical redress erode the Canadian welfare state? 222
  Matt James

9. Does the recognition of national minorities undermine the welfare state? 247
  Nicola McEwen

10. Multiculturalism versus neoliberalism in Latin America 272
    Donna Lee Van Cott

11. Neoliberalism and the re-emergence of ethnopolitics in Bolivia 297
    Willem Assies

Part III. Theoretical reflections

12. Multiculturalism and the welfare state: Theoretical reflections 323
    David Miller

    John Myles and Sibastien St-Amaud

References 355
Name Index 390
Subject Index 396